The Garland Ring Goes Big Time

April 11th, 2017 | Stephanie Dore

This stunning setting style, a customer favorite and editorial darling, makes the most of its diamonds, showing them off in all their glory. Since diamonds are April's birthstone we thought now would be a great time to explore the brilliance of one of our most celebrated designs.

You might be wondering what the term "garland" means. Usually, it refers to a wreath or string of flowers—think holiday decorations or daisy chains. We've taken that festive look and designed a streamlined and iconic setting that features diamonds of alternating-size that creates a spectacular row of sparkle.

Masterfully crafted with as little metal visible as possible, this look is a whole lot of diamond without ever being over-the-top. However, this style isn't just relegated to diamonds solely. Choose a ring that features richly hued sapphires, rubies, and emeralds to make the look your own. Or, showcase the same pattern in a classic pair of hoop earrings or a timeless diamond tennis bracelet.

A note of caution: This style has been crafted to show off the delicate edges of the diamonds, so to prevent damage, we recommend wearing a garland ring on its own rather than paired with another ring. Besides, it's even better looking when it stands alone.
